MEXICO CITY, April 21, 2017 – Atento S.A. (NYSE: ATTO), the leading provider of customer relationship management and business process outsourcing services (CRM/BPO) in Latin America, and one of the three largest providers worldwide, has received the Great Place to Work® award in Mexico, in the category of companies with more than 5,000 employees, affirming its position as one of the best places to work in the country. Atento has been recognized with this award for the 11th consecutive year in Mexico.

Miguel Matey, Atento Mexico Managing Director, commented, “We are truly proud to receive this recognition again, as it reflects how committed our employees are to Atento's mission of contributing to companies’ success by offering the best experience for their customers, and how they embody our values of commitment, passion, integrity and trust. I would like to thank them all for their contribution towards confirming our status as a Great Place to Work® in Mexico.”

“Human capital is a fundamental part of Atento and a valuable pillar of our company’s success. For that reason we employ, train and provide development opportunities to people with different profiles whose motivation contributes to the success of our clients” stated Atento Mexico Human Resources Director David Vargas.

In Mexico, Atento generates more than 20,000 direct jobs and offers a series of benefits that boost skills among its staff to increase their knowledge and capabilities. In many cases Atento is an excellent first job for young people who want to combine their studies with professional experience. The company is uniquely focused on providing better spaces and work tools for its employees. As part of this strategy it has programs centered on training and motivating employees, like the Talent Incubator and Leadership University.

Moreover, the company organizes supplementary activities that contribute to the well-being of its employees like sports, cultural events and volunteering. All these initiatives are essential to involve workers in the organization in a positive way and make them feel like part of a great team.

Atento is committed to offering a comprehensive value proposition that helps contribute both to the personal and professional growth of its employees and to the company’s success, through projects that boost the strengths of workers, an excellent work climate, maintaining staff motivation, promoting collaboration and offering programs that improve the quality of life of employees.
